Editorial reviewers

The International Labour Review's editorial process is crucially dependent on the support of external reviewers who kindly contribute their time, insights and opinions to the consideration of the large volume of submissions we receive every year. In acknowledgement of their contribution to ensuring the high quality of the research published, the journal's Editorial Board, Advisers and Geneva-based team would like to express their sincere gratitude for the assistance of the following reviewers who evaluated manuscripts between 1 December 2022 and 30 November 2023:
